Henry Livingsten, city attorney, whose name was mentioned in an article a few days ago in connection with the condemnation of four old buildings by Dan Newton, building inspector, says he is not to blame for the attendant publicity and in fact has not had anything to do with the buildings mentioned in cannection with his name for several years.

However, some of his friends have been making life merry for him and he wants matters set right. Mr. Livingston says notice of the condemnation proceedings were sent him because of the fact that he represented the owners several years ago and upon re-

The first round went aff nicely, but in the second I managed to slam over a right-hand punch that caught Smith him, my fiest flying. Smith, shrewd general of the ring, saw his opportunity, and as I came charging he let fly with that right hand of his. I saw the nunch coning and tried to avoid it, but it was useless. The blow hit me full on the chin.

How I got through that round I don't remember, and my recollection of the succeeding rounds in pretty hazy, but when I got to my dressing roon they told me I shad won the decision. I seme wrinkles of my own that I spring on myself every time I get started to training. To tell the truth about it. I have fought so much in the last two condition all the time. A fellow doesn't when I hat I have been in very fine get a chance to get out of condition when he keeps at it as I have, partable it and the lime. A fellow doesn't lam, I don't object to training at all, and I am very giad to say I am not a vice it and the very many times hit boxers when they train for a while.

A sunny outlook on life is far from the worst thing a man can have in connection with the daily grind of training for a fight. I try to think clean, the good to people and not worry about anything. I go to bed early, sleen like a child and I aways am up and stirring at 6 a.m. Regularity in habits is the reatest hing in-training, to my mind, for a man who tries to be an athlete. I am very certain that any man can be an athlete in a sense if he will earl. I am very certain that any man can be man athlete in a sense if he will earl. I am very certain that any man can be an athlete in a sense if he will earl of course, in addition to these things, he must everylash that should be done in the open air.

I guess my hobby is fresh air. I have lived in the amountains and on farms most of my life, and always was out it the open in those days. When I left the farm life and started in living in the big cities it seemed I couldn't get enough air. My training always has a great big dose of fresh air. In the coold nor too hot for me to get out for a while.

I breathed deeply and with conscious enjoyment which I am outside. Fresh air strengthens the lungs and makes if the far the last two distances for the sort. Labor of that kind hardens the muscles and is fine for the wind.

Those are very simple rules, easy to follow the simplicity of my diet is always adhered to. I place lots of confidence in my ability to digest what I order.

The baseball division of the Mem Associated Amateurs will meet at the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night at 8 o'clock to discuss various matters of interest to the amateurs. Chief among the discussions will be the possibility of starting a new schedule after declaring champions of the teams which are now ahead and have no chance of being overtaken in the permant race. This would mean that the present leaders would be declared the champs and would be eligible for the elimination contest at the end of the season, even if they did not win the proposed schedule, which would run seven weeks. Managers of the Liberty league are especially urged to be on hand, and the invitation is also extended to managers of every baseball club in Memphis, as matters of interest will be discussed. he Chamber of Commerce Wednesday

AN I TAKE A PUNCH?

At 1818, by the Evening Mail Syndicate.)

It is the newspaper men are ask-seives in the papers whether I a runch. They point out that have had to go a real hard her legan stopping the men helween me and a match for notifier health of their satisfaction, and then tel through they can judge for ex whether I will be able to a blow from Willard's flat, said that my burdest fight is ablow from Willard's flat, said that my burdest fight is aligned that my burdest fight is aligned the properties of the second the second that is a blow from Willard's flat, said that my burdest fight is ablow from Willard's flat, said that my burdest fight is aligned to tell about now it me to puglism I was precause of it.

If I were going to give advice to a voying fellow starting out to be any kind of an athlete my strongest bit of talk would be on this subject. Get out in the air and stay there as much as you can.

It may seem strange to readers, but in the air and stay there as much as you can.

It may seem strange to readers, but I give very little thought to my opponent when I am training for a contest. My thoughts are centered on conditioning myself to the best possible degree. Lots of fighters think of their opponents all the time and scrape the country looking for men as near like the man they are going to meet as possibles All foolishness, I believe A man can condition himself much better without werrying over details in the other fellow's makeup.

just learning to condition himself for purillism. It should not be.

There are certain rules of diet, of course, that must be adhered to strictly if one is to build a foundation for good physique, but most any youngster could figure out what helps him and what doesn't without a great deal of instruction. If he follows fundamentals.

There is too much stress laid on food as an aid to physical condition. There are some things that should not be eaten, and there are things that help a main attain physical perfection, but so far as hard and fast rules are concerned, I don't believe in them. They cause a man to worry, worty excites the nerves, and excited here's are worse than anything food could do to a hoxer.

So long as a man eats wholesome. Some time after our San Francisco neeting I again was matched with smith for ten rounds in Buffalo. This line I knocked out the Gunner in the second round after having knocked him down, eight or nine times in the first round.

I know of very few men, by the way, I know of very few men, by the way, who would have stood up and stopped who would have stood up and stopped salty.

and strange decootions that are turned down eight or nine times in the first round.

I know of very few men, by the way who would have stood up and stopped the bilows I threw into Smith that night. He is one of the gamest men is the ring game.

I have taken many blows in my life the ring game.

I have taken many blows in my life to the one that makes me feel that I can take anything the average heavy weight, or even Willard, has to offer is that sledge-hammer smash Gunboat Smith laid against my chin in San Francisco. As I said before the only reason I didn't take the count then and there that I was in excellent shape. No man can take a punch like that without being in tip-top condition, and as I always am in the vehy best of shape. I have no fear of my ability to assimilate anything that may come my way.

No fears need be felt overy my ability to astand punishment, even if I have been successful in putting my opponents out in quick time.

I NEVER WORRY.

I don't condition myself for a fight exactly the way most boxers do, I have some wrinkes of my own that I spring on myself every lime I get started to training. To tell the truth about it, have fought so much in the last two years that I have been in very fine condition all the very fine of teal to put on fat and according a battle.

Puddings and ples are, as everyone comected with the fight game knows, very bad. They tend to put on fat and are not good for the digestive organs.

When I am not in strict training I usually begin the day with a couple of text of preached. With this I have some toast and a cup of the last two years that I have been in very fine condition all they men to a fight.

I knew takes many blows in my life to say of course, that a boxer mey fat a boxer never should touch greasy stuff before he goes into a light. It disarrantes his digestive system and makes him loggy and slow. It is disarrantes his digestive system and makes him loggy and slow.
